Allen to Become Key Consultant

Quitting R.F.C. Leaves Him Free to Aid Truman Politically

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—George E. Allen's resignation as an R.F.C. director cleared the way today for his return to the unofficial role of presidential "spadeworker" and key consultant.

This was the view expressed by men in close contact with the President as well as by friends of the big, jovial, former insurance man.

Why He Resigned
These sources attributed the resignation to financial considerations. They said Allen could have earned $50,000 in 1946 through corporate connections if he had not taken the $100,000 government job. As it was, they said, he drew only $10,000 from a series of private directorships.

A desire to stay out of controversies such as his differences with former Housing Administrator Wilson Wyatt over R. F. C. loans for manufacturers of prefabricated housing, Allen, they said, feels that fights which keep him in the limelight hamper his usefulness to the President in the political field.

Helped With Decisions
Until the appointment to the government financial agency a year ago, Allen attended virtually all of President Truman's 9 a. m. staff conferences where important decisions are made.

His trips to the White House had become steadily more frequent during the last few months, a development attributed to the necessity of spending more and more time at his official post.

Will Be Available
Allen made it clear yesterday after a call on the President that he will be available for other government as well as "political" work.

These are the tasks he likes to call "spadework."
For instance, President Truman sent him to San Francisco in advance of his own appearance at the closing session of the post-war Security Conference.

Important Mission
There Allen talked with Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., then secretary of state. A few days later the President announced the appointment of Stettinius as first United States representative to the United Nations, paying the way for the appointment of James F. Byrnes as head of the State Department.

In another role, Allen drew up a formula for liquidation of a number of government agencies. What new assignments the President may have for him, apparently are yet to be determined.

Action Is Planned

Would Limit Presidents to Six or Eight Years as Chief Executives

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—Leaders of the new Republican majority in Congress today planned speedy action on proposals that future presidents be limited to six or eight years in office.

Senator Butler (R-Neb.) told a reporter he will have a resolution ready to drop in the hopper soon after Congress assembles next week, making two terms the maximum presidential tenure.

House Republican leaders planned an identical step.
Even if Congress approves a term limitation and it is signed by the President it may take several years to become effective because all pending proposals have been offered as constitutional amendments.

Force Has Role in New French Rule

France Must Use Guns, Planes to Bolster Her Diplomacy in Keeping Colonial Hold

Siege Is Declared

Saigon Has Curfew and Is Under Edict of Authorities

By REMBERT JAMES

Paris, Dec. 28 (AP)—Insurrection in Indochina, now reported as having spread to the south, has forced France to realize she must use guns and planes in addition to diplomacy to keep her rich, 400-year-old colonial empire from falling apart.

Though a permanent government under the new fourth republic is not yet complete, this country already has had to bring into play the sterner aspect of a "two-edged policy: loosen the bonds to hold colonialists impatient for wider freedom; but, when French authority is challenged, fight."

Nine days ago, while President Premier Leon Blum tackled the problems of a new Socialist interim government and even before the official Christmas Eve rebirth of war-shattered constitutional government, fighting broke out between Viet Nam and French in Hanoi, capital of Indochina and of the young Asiatic Viet Nam republic.

Engagements were reported swiftly in parts of the northern protectorate states of Tonkin and Annam. Yesterday news dispatches told of trouble also in the southern Indochinese colony of Cochinchina.

24 Reported Killed

The French press agency reported 24 Annamite, Indian and Chinese civilians killed in Christmas night gunfire attacks on four automobiles near Saigon, Cochinchina's capital. French army officers were said to have attributed the attacks to efforts of Viet Nam adherents to disrupt communications throughout the colony, perhaps in preparation for an offensive.

All Highways Are Dangerous, State Police Announce

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 28 (AP)—State Police listed virtually all highways in New York "slippery and dangerous" today as freezing rain and snow descended throughout the state.

Freezing rain was reported in Dunkirk in western New York and in Syracuse, Utica and Albany.

Snow fell in Glens Falls and Ticonderoga in the northeastern section.

In New York city, freezing rain during the night gave way to rain.

The Weather Bureau predicted strong winds and much colder in eastern New York tonight and windy and quite cold tomorrow.

A cold wave was forecast for western New York with a temperature at zero to five degrees above tonight followed by snow squalls, high winds and quite cold weather tomorrow.

Seven new directors and a president to succeed James L. Rowe will be chosen at the next election. Directors whose terms expire are Henry C. Page, Fred J. K. Eitel, E. Frank Flanagan, Edmund P. Rochford, William A. Van Valkenburgh, and Paul A. Zuca.

Harry Kaplan is chairman of the election committee which proposed a change in election procedure for the Chamber. Other members of the committee are Harold Clayton, the Rev. Frank Golinick, John Herlihy and Paul Zuca.

San Diego, Calif., Dec. 28 (AP)—Coroner's aides and a U. S. Marines rescue party hoped today to bring down from a barren, winter-lashed peak the remains of 12 Christmas Eve air disaster victims. Near the smashed, charred wreckage of the Western Air Lines transport, which was found yesterday, the nine passengers and three crew members lay dead with packages intended for Christmas strewn around them.

Merchants' Views Vary on Outlook Regarding Prices

General Opinion Locally Is 'Leveling Off' Is Bound to Come in Foods

Kingston merchants faced with the present confused price situation, do not agree entirely as to what the future holds for the consumer.

There is a general belief that with more merchandise being offered there will be a "leveling off" of prices in the food line and as one of the larger food store operators said, "the consumer is the judge" and he predicted that there would be a drop in the price of many items which he said had been priced too high and was causing "consumer resistance."

The head of another large grocery store and market predicted that prices would drop generally although he said production did not warrant a general drop. A third store owner said that while some items probably would have to drop in price before the buying public would move stocks, said he did not look for any general marked decrease in prices at this time.

No Permanent Drops

While the food outlook seemed to point to some price relief, this was not true in the wearing apparel lines. Although some merchants have already advertised "sales" at greatly reduced prices it seems generally agreed that these sales should not be interpreted as permanent drops.

Why Not at Night?

(An Editorial)

Mayor Edelmuth has called a public hearing on his proposed 1947 municipal budget for Monday at 3 p. m.

Why at 3 p. m.?

Very few persons will be able to attend this session, because the time is wrong. Those who work can't drop everything to attend a session set without regard for their opinions. Maybe they won't like the mayor's 1947 budget.

Maybe, if the meeting were set for 8 p. m., they would attend and say so.

Any voter or property holder is privileged to attend this meeting whether merely to listen or express his mind. A tentative rate for the coming year will be based on various estimates that comprise the budget. Taxpayers will have to foot the bill, although greatly inconvenienced by the afternoon time of 3 p. m. set by the mayor, and they should try to attend.

Desmond to Ask Fund Of $2,500,000 for Lunches

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 28 (AP)—Senator Thomas C. Desmond said today he would ask the 1947 legislature to appropriate $2,500,000 to meet what he called the "dire emergency" confronting the low-cost school lunch program in the state.

The Newburgh Republican said federal funds allocated to New York schools as partial reimbursement for lunches would be "exhausted in about six weeks" and that the State Education Department had notified 2,300 participating schools it would be forced to cancel lunch aid contracts.

The Education Department distributes the federal money to the schools.

Desmond added that 700,000 state school children were dependent on federal aid for low-cost lunches.

"State aid is urgently needed to prevent the lunch program from being wrecked," he asserted in a statement.

New York city officials, Desmond said, have told him that unless the state acts, the number of needy children receiving school lunch free would drop 50 percent and that "thousands will either have to pay more money or else depend on cold food brought from home."

Dewey Orders State Probe Of Wholesale Butter Market

Goldstein and Du Mond Are to Inquire Into Circumstances Surrounding Recent Trading and Check Violations

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 28 (AP)—The state launched an investigation into the New York city wholesale butter market today to determine whether there had been any violation of law in the sudden price drop.

Governor Dewey ordered the inquiry last night—close on the heels of a federal probe into charges of market manipulation—after a break in the New York market which saw prices fall nine to 10 cents a pound Thursday when organized support of dairy interests suddenly was withdrawn.

Dewey directed Attorney General Nathaniel L. Goldstein and Agriculture Commissioner C. Chester DuMond to "inquire into circumstances surrounding recent trading in butter and to determine whether there has been any violation of law."

Following the price break, the Dairyman's League Cooperative Association said that it had supported butter prices by purchase at levels that would keep the New York price to producers for milk in January at $5.46 a hundredweight, as at present.

Milk prices are hinged to butter prices in the New York milkshed and are set by the Federal State Milk Marketing Administrator under a formula that takes into account the price of top grade butter and skimmed milk powder for a 30-day period. This month's period expires December 24 and the price for January was set at $4.46 a hundredweight, unchanged since November.

A spokesman for C. J. Blanford, milk marketing administrator, said the milk price would not be revised even if it were found to have been based on artificially stimulated butter prices.

Doesn't Know Purchases
Henry H. Rathbun, Dairyman's League head, said last night he did not know the amount of butter purchased by the League and that he "assumed the butter would be handled through League channels."

Rathbun, Oneida county Republican leader, former member of the executive committee of the Republican State Committee and a friend of Governor Dewey, had no comment on the state inquiry.

The Attorney General's office said the Dewey-ordered probe would seek to determine whether there had been a violation of New York's anti-monopoly law, known as the Donnelly Act.

The law defines as illegal any contract, agreement, arrangement or combination whereby a monopoly is created for restraint of trade. The maximum penalty against an individual is a fine of $5,000 and a year's imprisonment and against a corporation, a fine of $20,000.

The Attorney General's office said cooperatives were exempt from provisions of the Donnelly Act.

To Prevent Decline
In its statement, the Dairyman's League, which claims to represent about 26,000 milk producers, declared that purchases of butter by the League "were made to prevent a threatened decline of 22 cents a hundredweight in the January price of milk."

The League estimated that this had prevented a loss of $600,000 to its dairy farmers in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Vermont.

Meanwhile wholesale prices for top grade butter rose four cents a pound in New York yesterday to 79 cents, wiping out part of the drop that hit the market Thursday.

Police Chief Releases No Statement on How Pair Was Captured by Department

Loot Is Recovered

P. R. Shultis and Walter Greene Are Taken to County Jail

With the arrest of two Kingston youths by Detectives J. Wesley Cramer and Clarence Brophy, Friday, the police believe they have cleared up a series of automobile accessory thefts extending over a year's duration.

The two held for grand larceny second degree are: Paul Richard Shultis, 19, of 131 O'Neill street.

Walter Greene, 21, of 49 Court street, near Forsyth Park.

When the pair was arraigned before City Judge Matthew V. Cahill in court today, they waived examination and were held to await the action of the Ulster county Grand Jury.

The two were remanded to jail, in custody of Sheriff George C. Smith to await fixing of bail by County Judge John M. Cashin.

In the event that they cannot raise the amount set, they'll be held in jail for the Grand Jury.

Police Chief Ernest A. Boss said that most of the alleged stolen goods had been recovered, and he intimated that Shultis and Greene admitted the thefts, turning over hundreds of dollars.

The youths were arrested at 6 p. m. yesterday by Detectives Cramer and Brophy, who with Chief Boss grilled Shultis and Greene until almost 10 o'clock.

The chief was secretive today about the clues the officers followed in effecting the arrest of the two, but advised that the men under arrest involved others in their statements during the police probe.

"All I can say is that this arrest is the result of good detective work," the chief told a reporter.

Basin of Charges
Thefts with which the two are charged are:

About a year ago, parts taken from the car of Miss Alice Buzzano, employed by the Fuller Shirt Company on Pine Grove avenue—Five wheels, with tires and tubes.

Miss Buzzano's car, parked on Oak street, was pushed for some distance and then driven to the bottom of the DeWitt Hill on the Rosendale road. After the wheels had been removed the auto was abandoned.

Christmas Eve, four wheels, tires and tubes stolen from the car of Andrew Madden of 30 Hamilton street, while it was parked on Abel street in the Wilbur section of Kingston.

Early in December, one wheel and tire removed from the car of the same Mr. Madden while it was parked.

December 1, three wheels, tires and tubes stolen from the parked car of Edwin V. Delavan of 53 Lawrence street.

A previous theft reported by Miss Barbara Doll of 129 East Chester street was of a wheel, tire and tube removed from her car while it was parked.

The bulk of the loot cached by Greene and Shultis was recovered by the detectives, except the five wheels taken from the Buzzano car. Three tires were buried in Greene's garage.

Panthers Rule Car

Animal Trainer Will Try to Subdue Animals in Express Car

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 28 (AP)—A Dallas animal trainer was en route to El Paso by plane early today to aid Texas and Pacific Railroad officials and local police in ending the reign for three panthers of exclusive use of a railway express car.

The panthers, being shipped from Dallas to Casimiro, Calif., chewed their way out of a cage in the car yesterday as the train neared Big Spring, Tex. Since being discovered out of their cage by H. Cooper, baggageman, the animals have provided the railroad car—alone and behind locked doors.

Noble Hammett of Dallas, shipper of the panthers and their trainer, was to have left Dallas late last night by plane to come here to supervise the capture of the animals.

Anniversary Service

At First Baptist Church

The First Baptist Church will observe the first anniversary of the Rev. and Mrs. Edward V. Winder as ministers of the Church Sunday morning at 10:30. Music will include a contralto solo, "O Lovely Voices of the Sky" by Miss Collette Magnusson; an anthem by the Temple choir; a duet, "Watchman, What of the Night?" by the Misses Betty La Tour and Collette Magnusson; organ prelude, "Chorale Prelude in Dulci Jubilo," Bach; organ interlude, "The March of the Magi," Harper.

The Rev. Mr. Winder came here from the First Baptist Church at Herkimer after serving as moderator of the Mohawk River Baptist Association. He will repeat the same sermon that he gave here one year ago, "Three Reasonable Resolutions for the New Year." Mr. Winder has served Baptist churches in Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and New York. Mr. Winder, a licensed minister, who also served as moderator of the Mohawk River Baptist Association, is a minister of music and superintendent of curriculum in the local church.

The past year is said to have been one of steady progress, with 71 members received and 12 children dedicated. There has been an average attendance of 198 at the various religious services and 1,568 pastoral calls were made. A successful home visitation Evangelism crusade was conducted and preaching mission under the leadership of the Rev. Dr. William Ward Ayer of New York city. The unified, an achievement plan for the church school adopted, and an institute conducted for six weeks. A new parsonage at 187 Pine street was purchased for $10,500 and paid for; also a $15,000 organ and church remodeling fund started.

Students to Hold Service at St. James Sunday Morning

St. James Methodist Church will present a Student Day service in place of the regular morning service on Sunday. It will be conducted by members of the church who are home from colleges and universities to spend their Christmas vacations in Kingston. The senior class of Kingston High School will also be represented. The service will consist of four original addresses by students, who will present their views on topics which they have chosen. All college students and high school seniors who are members of St. James Church are asked to attend this service and to be present at the church by 10:30 a. m. This program will mark an important step in the world-wide Stewardship campaign of the Methodist Church, which is expected to make great strides during 1947.

Elmer Havens, president of the senior class and honor society of Kingston High School, who is also president of the Youth Fellowship group at St. James Church, will speak on the topic, "A High School Faces Life." Donald Dumm, a student at Brothers' College, Drew University, will speak on, "A G.I. Returns to the Campus." Donald attended Brothers' College before his entrance into the C.B.'s of the United States Navy. He recently returned to school after several years of service and is well qualified to speak on this theme.

Miss Patricia Scudder, who is a Junior at Juillard School of Music and who has been quite active in religious work in the Church of St. Paul and St. Andrew in New York city, will express her views on "Religious Life of a College Student." In view of Miss Scudder's experience in college religious life her address should prove to be interesting.

Richard Reynolds, a freshman at Rutgers College, who has been very active for the past two years in youth leadership at St. James, will discuss, "Using Our Christian Heritage." The scriptures will be given by Roy Crowell, a student at New Paltz State Teachers College. Roy recently entered college after spending several years in the service. Thomas Reynolds will conduct the service. He is a freshman at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, recently been discharged from the United States Army, where he served in the Infantry. The morning prayer will be presented by Neumont Culver, a student at Union College, where he has established a fine athletic record. A feature of the program will be a solo sung by Miss Beverly Bonesteel, who is majoring in music at the University of Michigan. Gordon Taylor, a sophomore at Bard College and who recently has been discharged from the Army Air Forces, is assisting the Rev. W. Wesley Williams, pastor of St. James, in preparing the program.

ONE WAY TO GET HOUSING

Private enterprise can meet the housing needs of only half the nation, says Nathan Straus, former National Housing Administrator. Even such labor-saving methods of building as prefabrication will help only a little.

Direct governmental aid to families in the lower income half of Mr. Straus's solution. He cites the huge grants of free land which made possible the transcontinental railroads, and the road building program which developed the automobile industry. Private construction has never, he says, built as many as 1,000,000 dwellings a year. There should be 1,000,000 annually for ten years in succession.

Private enterprise is going to have a chance to show what it can do. If it fails, the cry for government-built houses and apartments will be strong. Private builders, to avoid this, must demonstrate their ability to make good.

UNBALANCED CONGRESS

Population changes, marked in many sections during the war, have upset the American system of representation. In Chicago, for instance, one district with a million citizens has only one congressman. Another Illinois borough has one congressman for 100,000 people. In Ohio, a three-county district near Lake Erie with more than 600,000 has no representation in Washington than a thinly settled section along the Ohio River with a third the population.

In most states there are laws calling for changes in congressional boundaries after each federal census. These laws are unpopular with congressmen who fear the redistricting that would unseat many. The potential new congressmen whom re-zoning would create cannot defend the reform.

The American democracy is based on balanced representation throughout the country. The present situation distorts this. States need to look to their 1940 census figures and redistrict their Washington representation if this is indicated.

THE CAR FAMINE

There is one clear call running through the land today, the burden of which is "New cars for old, new cars for old." It is a rather sad refrain, at a time when so many thousands of cars have broken down and deliveries are so slow. But there may be one good thing about it.

It is remarkable, how many citizens who used to take for granted their car and all its appurtenances, counting cheerfully on getting a new car when they wanted it, meanwhile relying confidently on getting repairs and spare parts, are suddenly brought up short by the discovery that it is impossible. They will probably know more about cars now, and take better care of them. If they haven't actually started this reasonable procedure, they'd better get busy. For dealers say it may still be a long time before most of them can get new cars.

SCHOOL FOR A PRINCE

For no Japanese citizen has the war brought changes so fundamental as for the heir to the throne, the 13-year-old future emperor. Since his father, Hirohito, has renounced divinity for himself, and therefore his heirs, it follows that his son must be trained for a role totally different from any ever essayed by a member of this 750-year-old dynasty. Instead of the former secluded private instruction under carefully selected tutors within royal palace grounds, the boy attends classes with 160 other boys, only 50 of them nobles, in a plain unheated building in Tokyo's suburbs. The curriculum, supervised by occupation authorities, includes twice as much English as Japanese. Teachers include one woman and many Americans.

The new order will be easier for the little boy than for his father and those of his generation. Youth is flexible. This child, too, seems to have certain natural advantages. He is said to be a good student, is adopting group play enthusiastically and is chubbier

DAIREN

The State Department pronouncement that the Russian commander possessed a legal right to order an American naval vessel out of the Port of Dairen is the formal recognition of a falsehood. Either the State Department is so cowardly that it will not defend American rights and dignity or so ignorant that it does not know the facts. As it is impossible to believe the latter, it must be accepted that the policy of expedient appeasement so tragically pursued at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam is being continued.

The Port of Dairen is Chinese territory, once leased to Japan. No treaty exists between the United States and China or the United States and Soviet Russia by which the United States recognizes Russia as the successor to the Japanese lease. No treaty has ever been made the law of this land, in accordance with constitutional procedures, recognizing Russia's position in Dairen or anywhere in South Manchuria. Dairen is Chinese. Only the recognized Chinese government can protest improprieties on the part of American officials in Chinese territory.

I challenge the State Department to produce a treaty between the United States and China or the United States and Soviet Russia giving Soviet Russia authority to kick American officials and American citizens out of Dairen. I challenge the press office of the State Department who issued the cowardly defense of Soviet Russia's insult to our flag to produce such a treaty. If he does not produce one forthwith, Congress should immediately investigate what goes on in Manchuria, which the United States and China conquered and for which Soviet Russia was at war a maximum of six days after we had defeated Japan. Let's have the facts.

In 1894, Japan made war on China, defeated China and demanded a foothold in Manchuria at Dairen, then called Dally. This was refused at the behest of Russia, Germany and France. Instead an indemnity was paid to Japan. Two years later, by means of the corrupt and secret Li-Lobanoff Treaty, Russia created the Russo-Asiatic Bank and built, largely with French money, the Chinese Eastern Railroad, in the form of a T, the horizontal bar running from the Siberian border to Vladivostok; the vertical bar continuing from Harbin to Dairen. This gave to Russia a control of the economic life of Manchuria.

During the Boxer Rebellion, Russia attempted to hold the whole of Manchuria as Russian territory. This was opposed by the United States and Great Britain, who encouraged Japan to fight Russia in 1904. By the Treaty of Portsmouth which ended the Russo-Japanese war, the Chinese Eastern Railroad was divided in two, the Russians continuing to own the horizontal bar in the north and a spur from Harbin to Changchun. The Japanese got the vertical road from Changchun to Dairen. The Japanese also obtained Port Arthur and a protective zone adjacent to the railroad.

From that day to this China has been struggling to restore her full possession of Manchuria. The Japanese built a series of railroads all over southern Manchuria, to compete with which the Chinese built railroads, often duplicating the Japanese lines. It has been the policy of the American government that Manchuria should be fully restored to China, and that has been one of the reasons for our quarrel with Japan after 1931, when the Japanese took the whole of Manchuria and part of Eastern Mongolia from China, although we did not contest Russia's seizure of most of Mongolia.

On December 1, 1943, at Cairo, Messrs. Roosevelt, Churchill and Chiang Kai-shek declared that all territories "that Japan has stolen from the Chinese, such as Manchuria," be "restored to the Republic of China." This is stated without reservation.

At Yalta, a secret and clandestine agreement was reached concerning Manchuria which I published on March 2, 1945, and which recognized Soviet Russia rather than China as the successor to Japan. In the published document of the Yalta Conference, issued by Messrs. Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin on February 11, 1945, no word is said of this. Mr. Roosevelt, on the contrary, claimed that no political agreements had been arranged at Yalta other than those published as noted. He did not tell the truth. It is up to Congress to get the truth.

MENTAL AILMENTS

Since the introduction of the electric shock treatment for mental ailments many patients have been able to return to their daily occupation and many have been able to return home with little or no care necessary.

Naturally the patient and the family want to know what electric shock does to the body, and, while little or no permanent harm is done, there are cases of dislocations of joints and fractures of bones. Because there is usually no damage Dr. Wm. Karlner in Medical Record states "Electric shock treatment" seems a better name than "electric shock," "electric convulsion" or "electric fit" treatment.

The patient is placed on the table with a pillow under the back to extend the spine, a gag is placed in his mouth to protect lips and lining of cheeks and he is instructed to bite into the gag. The button is then pressed sending a current through the electrodes held against the head with a rubber band. The timer switch allows the operator to control the passage of the electric current for fractions of a second. The desired voltage and timing is selected on the panel of the machine.

The reaction to the current is instantaneous (a deep seizure being most desirable). There is first spasm and then convulsions of the muscles, spasm lasting 5 to 10 seconds and the convulsion 10 to 20 seconds, perhaps a half minute altogether.

During the convulsion the patient is in a deep sleep (coma) and awakens in 30 to 60 minutes. Patients who have undergone insulin or other forms of shock usually prefer the electric shock or sleep. There are side effects in some cases—muscular pain, headache, nausea and vomiting, backache and loss of memory lasting one to two days.

The electric shock treatment has been successful in cases where other forms of treatment have failed; such cases as deep melancholia, the depression at or following the menopause in women, in mania and depression and in double personality, are helped.

What Am I Getting Into?

'SEDITION' CASE?

One of the foulest affairs the 80th Congress will be asked to look into is the so-called mass sedition trial.

A federal court allegedly was used as a device for persecuting and smearing 26 American citizens whose crime appears—after five years of investigation by the Department of Justice—to have been no more than opposition to the New Deal and to pre-war acts to the administration which tended to involve this country in war.

The case, recently dismissed but under appeal, is the most notorious piece of legal persecution perpetrated by the federal government on American citizens since the end of the Eighteenth Century, when the infamous sedition trials sent men to jail for criticizing the Federalist Party and President Adams' administration. This conduct is inescapable after reading the decision of Chief Justice Bolitha J. Laws of the Federal District Court of the District of Columbia.

Apparently, the aim of the New Deal prosecution was much the same as that of the administration in 1798—to perpetuate itself in power, because if the selected victims could be jailed then millions of Americans who thought as they would be intimidated and would not speak up.

Congress will be requested to look into the grand jury records to determine whether or not "certain prosecutors knowingly resorted to the use of perjured testimony in obtaining indictments."

In dismissing the case recently Justice Laws pointed out the long harassment of the defendants, eighteen of whom were financially unable to retain defense attorneys, and the defamation of character the defendants had suffered.

"Travesty on Justice"
One federal judge died while hearing the case, abruptly ending a hearing which already had run eight months, the longest of any case in the history of our federal courts—and still the defense had no turn. Later a new indictment was granted, then dismissed. A third indictment was granted after zealous New Dealer, O. John Rogge, chief prosecutor, had gone all the way to Germany in search of evidence.

When the case was called September 20, 1946, for the purpose of setting a date for trial Prosecutor Rogge was forced to admit to the court that he had not enough evidence for conviction. He wanted more time—more time to keep the defendants under indictment and harassment, more time in which they might suffer defamation in the eyes of the public.

Said Justice Laws, "If these defendants are guilty it would seem that any serious doubt would be resolved in more than five years of intensive investigation by the Department of Justice.... To permit another trial... would be a travesty on justice."

Those few Americans who actually know what went on speak of this case as Walter Winchell's trial, and that is the only way in which it means anything to them. This "commentator" gets the credit simply because he vociferously self-claimed it Sunday after Sunday year after year, beginning in 1942 when the Department of Justice, spurred by the Winchell tirades against people he kept saying "would go to jail," began collecting evidence and getting out indictments.

The charges were criminal, but the only accusations brought in evidence were political.

The charges, as filed, were conspiring to interfere with the draft, to undermine the morale of the armed forces and to set up a Nazi regime in America. Efforts were made to show the defendants tried to stir up racial and religious hatred.

No connection ever was shown among the defendants. Few ever had met or corresponded with any of the others. The only tie joining them was presented by a Washington newsman who had written each for literature and the samples he received were all submitted jointly. This fraud blew up in the face of the prosecutors.

Another smear device was the pooling of these defendants with two German-American bund leaders in the same trial. This is an old Communist trick, used every day—smearing a guiltless victim by associating his name with a name already smeared or odious.

This "Rogge-Winchell case" is an amazing modern parallel to the scandalous use of federal courts for political malice in the late 1790's when Federalists got special sedition laws passed, under which a number of critics and opponents of the administration were convicted and imprisoned. Most of the victims were friends of Thomas Jefferson.

The public revolt put Jefferson into the presidency, blew to bits the Federalist Party, which had thus tried to perpetuate itself, and gave birth to the Democratic Party.

Jefferson released the political prisoners, had their fines remitted with interest and got the sedition laws repealed.

There has been little poetry and less justice in the New Deal, but it is poetic justice, of a sort, that the New Deal's chief prosecutor of the mass sedition trial, O. John Rogge, at last has been fired, and as a result of a squabble rising out of this trial.

But it would be sublime irony if the great Democratic Party, which arose by righting such a wrong in the 1790's, were to be discarded in the late 1940's because its too-ruthless heads and too-loud-mouthed voices resorted to the same wrong!

Play Review

by SYLVESTER HOWARD

"Burlesque" was one of the three Christmas shows which opened on Broadway. Santa Claus apparently wanted to be sure that the stocking would be full, but he should have looked around a bit more before choosing his gifts.

"Burlesque" is something we would put in the attic after Christmas.

Arthur Hopkins has revived the old play which he wrote long ago with George Watters. It is all about a vaudeville clown who gets a chance in the big town, goes to pieces, and finally goes back to the road where he knows he belongs. Show business is a fascinating thing, and people like to see what goes on behind the curtain. Unfortunately, most of the people on the stage of Belasco are not worth seeing.

Most of the fault can be traced to the script which is quite dead. It is too bad producers put on plays which sound as though they were written for the senior class in high school. No one expects a play like "Burlesque" to be a masterpiece, but the writers should do something.

The first two acts of the play show us the troupe backstage with its rivalries, fights and hopes. There is a lot of talking and hustling about, although it is pretty dreary until Bert Lahr breaks out into a couple of songs and dances.

The third act is a reasonably funny burlesque of burlesque. The slinking sirens, the strip teasers, the noisy band, and the drunken cop all are there.

Bert Lahr deserves almost all of the credit for what life there is in "Burlesque." He struts and smugs through his part, bringing a genuine feeling for the old hooper. He is loud and cheap and sentimental, it is a wonderful portrait.

Jean Parker, in the role that made Barbara Stanwyck famous, is not very happy. She is pretty and sweet, but she cannot give any life to the leading lady of the company. She is not tough enough to be in "Burlesque." The rest of the cast is a competent troupe of hard boiled show girls, managers, and hangers-on. They do their job well, with special mention due to Jerry Blanchard as the girl with the big bust and to Kay Buckley who does some lively dancing.

No doubt Mr. Hopkins had a nostalgic feeling for the good old days when he thought of reviving burlesque, probably his memory made his play seem like real stuff to him. To the playgoer, however, it is like looking at an old family photo album. When you don't know the people, it gets rather boring.

Rome Press Reports
Strike Over Food, Prices

Rome, Dec. 28 (AP)—The big southeastern port town of Bari, with a population of 200,000, this morning went into the second day of a general strike against food shortages that yesterday brought bloody battling between ugly-tempered crowds and police.

One university student was dead and 25 other people wounded, including six police, at the end of the first day of the strike, which arose out of the refusal or inability of local authorities to grant popular demands for relief from hunger and soaring prices, according to dispatches to the Rome press.

Reece Refuses Hookup
With Stassen's Forum

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—A polite "No thanks" from G.O.P. Chairman Carroll Reece left Harold E. Stassen's Republican open forums on their own today, without financial aid or direction from the national committee.

In rejecting an offer by Stassen for the national committee to take over the forums, Reece said it would cost too much money and might create intra-party dissension.

Stassen, the only announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1948, organized the forums last April to develop possible candidates for the party's advisory committee.

Replying to Reece's turn-down yesterday, the Minnesota said the forums will continue to cooperate with the committee and will be willing to be taken over at any time.

Metropolitan Cage Stars Here With Brooklyn New Year's Night

L.I.U. and N.Y.U. Aces Will Oppose Kingston Quintet

Sol Cohen, High Scorer in Pro Circuit; Les Walsh, Ex-Violet, Coming for Game

Two former basketball stars at Long Island University and one from New York University will spearhead the invasion of the high-scoring Brooklyn Gothams into the municipal auditorium next Wednesday, New Year's Night, in a regular American Professional Basketball League game with the Kingston Chiefs.

Sol Cohen and Fredo Frey are the two star players who formerly attended L. I. U. and Les "Knobby" Walsh is the N.Y.U. representative. Cohen, continuing his great play, which made him one of the best a few seasons ago, is currently the league's top scorer.

Cooney Expects Trouble
Coach Roddy Cooney, former coach of St. Francis College in Brooklyn, who now handles the Chiefs, holds the Gothams in high regard. "The Brooklyn club is presently the top team in the league with 12 victories and only three defeats. I've seen them in action a number of times already and they are strictly fast from the forwards back through to the guards. We'll have to be at our best to take them into camp Wednesday night."

Indications are that the auditorium will be packed New Year's night to see these two clubs battle in the regular league contest. Kingston's sudden-death victory over the Paterson Crescents Christmas night added a bigger following to the local cages and early ticket reports promise a banner turnout.

Seats on Sale
The reserved sale of tickets is on and choice seats may be procured by calling the American Legion Building, 1914. Extra bleacher seats have been secured and will be placed near the stage good for general admission ticket holders.

Coach Cooney demonstrated his knowledge of the Chief roster Christmas night, when he kept changing his cages around until he finally found a winning combination. Trailing for 44 minutes of the game, Kingston suddenly overtook the Crescents and held on for a slim 44 to 42 victory in the opening league clash here.

Lockheed's return to form also boosted the Chiefs to a definite threat. The former St. Francis star pumped in only nine points but four of them came in the final four minutes of play. Art's set shot with four minutes left tied the game and he rebounded right back and fired in pushup which won the game.

Fans who like their basketball fast will get just that next Wednesday night. The Gothams are rated as the fastest club in the league besides being a top scoring team. Last week Les Walsh netted 17 points to pace Brooklyn to a big win over the Jersey City Atoms. All of the others are scoring threats including Cohen, Frey and Sol Kopitko, formerly of C.C.N.Y.

Following Wednesday's contest the Chiefs will return to regular Saturday night basketball games.

Jersey City's Edge Over Chiefs Sliced By Friday's Defeat

Trenton Tigers Score 69-65 Victory Last Night in Two Extra Periods; Lead Is 1½ Games

The Kingston Chiefs, new member of the American Professional Basketball League, only trailed the third place Jersey City Atoms by one and one-half games this morning. The Trenton Tigers, third place team in the southern division, came through with a 69 to 65 victory over the Atoms in two extra periods of play Friday night.

The Chiefs, primed for their meeting with the Brooklyn Gothams at the municipal auditorium New Year's Night, now have a record of four wins and eight defeats. Jersey City's mark is six triumphs and nine setbacks. The Chiefs scored their first local win Christmas Night by downing the Paterson Crescents, 44 to 42 in a whirlwind finish.

The Atoms, however, have a chance to increase their lead over the local quintet in a single game tonight and another one Sunday afternoon with the Baltimore Bullets, league leaders in the southern division.

Santa Anita Opens 10th Season; Day Good for Mudders

Arcadia, Calif., Dec. 28 (AP)—It was a day for mudders as Santa Anita opened its 10th season with the $50,000 California Breeders' champion stakes for home-bred two-year-olds.

Despite an off track, clearing skies were expected to draw a crowd of 40,000 to the picturesque racing oval, which is offering its richest 50-day meeting. Today's stake was the first of a dozen major events offering purses of $50,000 or more.

Twenty crack juveniles were named for the all-star stake, but the sloppy going figured to bring a handful of last field of about 15.

Louis E. Mayer's Stepfather and Rex C. Ellsworth's hustling filly, U-Time, were likely joint favorites.

Two Veterans Take Top Spot in Selections

New Orleans, Dec. 28 (AP)—Two New Orleans war veterans loaned large in the select Sugar Bowl Tennis Tournament today with upset victories over third and fourth seeded players.

Ernie Sutter, former National Intercollegiate Champion at Tulane University, who is making his first return to tournament play since receiving a shrapnel wound in his playing arm in 1927, bowled over Harry Liza, of San Francisco, 6-0, 10-8.

Jack Tervo, Tulane University freshman, assumed the "dark horse" role with his convincing 6-1, 6-1 triumph over Frank Guernsey of Garden City, N. Y. Tervo played brilliant and nearly errorless tennis in scoring over Guernsey, though the points were long and hard-fought and much closer than the count indicates. Tervo served in the navy during the war.

Illinois Coach Fires Two Players

Curfew Rule Violations Causes Eliot to Take Drastic Action

Pasadena, Calif., Dec. 28 (AP)—Illinois football stock slumped today—the extent to be determined later—with the summary dismissal of two members of the fighting Illini by Head Coach Ray Eliot for "violation of the curfew rule."

As their Rose Bowl rivals, the Bruins of U.C.L.A., slated another Sunday drill, the Big Nine champions scratched one player who might prove vital in Illinois' New Year's Day bow to the Rose Bowl in the Big Nine-Pacific coast conference tieup.

Coach Eliot disclosed he had fired Center Lou Donoho, six-foot ex-marine regarded by team camp followers as an apt understudy to the number one center, Mac Wenckunas, who today awaited a doctor's report on symptoms of appendicitis.

The other Illini ordered sent home by Eliot was a substitute fullback, Ray Florek. Eliot made no further statement, but it was known the pair missed practice the day after Christmas.
